Syncom 2 Is In Orbit

22,300 Mile
Destination
For Vehicle

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — The Syncom 2 communications satellite rocketed into orbit today and hurtled upward toward a point 22,300 miles high where a small motor was to kick it onto a path where it seemingly would hover motionless in the sky.

The motor was set to fire about 3 p. m. EST.

If telephone, teletype and radio experiments with the satellite work as planned, the United States will make a great advance toward a comparatively low-cost worldwide space communications network requiring only three satellites, far enough out and so spaced that one would be in range from any point.

The 3-stage, 90-foot-tall Delta, seeking its 19th straight launching success, shot away from its launching pad at 9:33 a. m.

The flight plan called for the 147-pound drum-shaped satellite to hurtle upward for 5 hours, 30 minutes, its speed gradually decreasing from 22,500 miles to 3,706 miles an hour.

Then a small solid-fuel rocket attached to Syncom 2 was to be fired by an automatic timing device to inject the payload into a circular orbit 22,300 miles above the equator over northern South America and the Caribbean.

The contractor has been notified that work may begin on or about Aug. 5.

Construction will be carried out under the supervision of the department's District 5 office at Jefferson City, where P. G. Parrish is the district engineer. Coy L. Breuer, the district's engineer in charge of construction, will direct the work with J. C. Murphy of Jefferson City as the resident engineer in active charge.

The Missouri State Highway Commission has completed contracts for work on about 143 miles of the state's roads and highways costing $18,786,829 on which bids were received on June 21.

Nikita Says Way Paved To Total Disarmament

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev declared today that the agreement on the new nuclear test ban treaty created favorable opportunities to proceed to total disarmament.

He made the statement in answer to questions from correspondents of Izvestia and Pravda submitted to him in writing. They will be published in the two papers tonight and Saturday morning.

The answers were read to correspondents at a press conference in the Foreign office shortly after Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman made a declaration in the same spirit at a news conference in the U. S. Embassy.

Khrushchev turned immediately to the theme that he pushed during the negotiations of the past 12 days that led to the initialing Thursday night of the test ban treaty.

That theme was the achievement of a nonaggression pact between the 15 nations of NATO and the seven Communist states of the Warsaw Pact.

Harriman called on Khrushchev in the Kremlin and was received with a great show of warmth by the premier.

Turning to the nonaggression pact, Khrushchev said in the interview: "The Soviet government is confident that if in the solution of the nonaggression pact, the same good will is shown as was shown in the negotiations of the nuclear weapons test ban, it will be possible quickly to achieve an agreement on a nonaggression pact."

Khrushchev said there were other problems that now might be approached with the possibility of success.

Tucker Dies For Murder Of Officer

Convicted Slayer Goes Quietly To State Gas Chamber

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Sammy Aire Tucker, 28-year-old cop killer from Fresno, Calif., died in Missouri's gas chamber at 12:10 a. m. today.

Warden E. V. Nash pulled the lever which dropped cyanide pellets into a bucket of acid under the death chair at 12:07 a. m. White fumes rose around the condemned man's face and three minutes later his head fell forward for the last time.

Tucker was calm but breathed hard as he was strapped in the death chair.

The warden said Tucker, just before he died, said he was sorry for his life of crime and held no grudge or animosity toward anyone.

The execution resulted from the slaying of two policemen in a gun battle at Cape Girardeau, Mo., on March 10, 1961.

Tucker was convicted of killing Donald H. Crittendon.

Tucker's partner, Douglas Wayne Thompson, 28, has been sentenced to death for killing Herbert Goss in the same gunfight. Thompson has appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Evidence showed Tucker and Thompson staged a series of holdups on their way from California. Crittendon and Goss were shot down when they tried to arrest the pair in Cape Girardeau.

Both escaped after the battle, but Tucker was captured the next day. Thompson was caught a week later at Poplar Bluff, Mo., after killing a bystander and wounding a highway patrolman.

Tucker had a long police record in California, including a sentence of five years to life for armed robbery.

Among the witnesses at the execution was Jack Crittendon, brother of the slain policeman.

It was the first execution in Missouri since 1957.

Food Prices Are Up

New Costs Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs in June rose four-tenths of one per cent to a record high, the Labor Department reported today.

The rise was the highest for a single month since September of last year when an increase of six-tenths of one per cent was recorded.

The June index at 106.6 compared to the 100 base for 1957-59, and was 1.2 per cent above last year.

The figures mean it cost $10.66 to buy in June the same living cost items which could be bought for $10 in the 1957-59 period.

Net spendable earnings of factory production workers also rose in June to a record figure.

For the average factory worker with three dependents, take home pay after federal income and Social Security tax deductions, advanced by over 90 cents to a record $88.37 a week.

The living cost increase cut into what the department calls "real earnings" but real earnings nevertheless set a new high.

Arnold Chase, assistant commissioner for prices and living conditions in the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the June increase was due primarily to higher prices for food, housing and medical care.

In addition, sales taxes were increased in several cities. Sharply higher sugar prices were a major cause of an advance in average food prices in June. Sugar prices rose by 32 per cent and were 44 per cent above a year earlier.

On the whole, food prices averaged 1.4 per cent higher than a year ago. Restaurant meals were 2.2 per cent higher.

Young Boy Hit By Car Is Critical

A three-year-old Sedalia boy was critically injured in a pedestrian-car accident at 7:37 p. m. Thursday in the 1600 block on South Stewart.

Christopher Allen Lopez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jose R. Lopez, 508 West 22nd, received a severe fracture of the skull and abrasions of the left leg. He was rushed to Bothwell Hospital in the Ewing ambulance and treated by Dr. A. J. Campbell, who said the boy's condition was critical. The boy was admitted and, Friday was to be transferred to the University of Missouri Medical Center, Columbia.

According to police, the car involved in the mishap was a 1957 DeSoto driven south on Stewart by Claus H. Bruns, 78, 1505 South Montauk.

Reports indicate the boy was with Mrs. Jewell Rehmer, 1901 South Stewart, who was baby-sitting with him at the time of the accident. Mrs. Rehmer said they were at the home of Anna Burkhead, 1610 South Stewart, for a visit. Mrs. Rehmer said the boy darted off the porch and into the street. She said she did not see the accident happen.

Sgt. William E. Miller said the boy's head struck the left headlight rim.

Miller, one of the investigating police officers, said his "preliminary investigation shows that the accident was unavoidable. The car was reportedly moving slowly at the time of the mishap."

Assisting Miller in the investigation were Officers Lester Williams and Robert Quann.

Miller said Bruns would be issued a police summons for careless and imprudent driving involved in a pedestrian-car accident. It was Sedalia's 338th accident of the year.

Yugoslavia City Scene of Horror

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — A catastrophic earthquake struck the minareted city of Skopje at dawn today toppling tall buildings and homes and possibly killing more than 1,000 people.

Radio Belgrade said there are "thousands of injured," adding it was impossible to say how many were killed but the number "must be very great." The official news agency Tanjug put the estimated death toll over 1,000.

The radio said fires broke out in a technical school and a boys' high school.

Most of the city's population of 270,000 were caught in their beds by the thunderous quake. Many ran out of their apartments in their night clothes.

Tens of thousands stood in the rubble-filled streets, some weeping, others just staring at their former homes which had collapsed, Skopje reported.

Skopje parks were turned into collection points for the homeless. All citizens were ordered to stay out of their homes for the next 24 hours as a safety measure.

Tanjug reported that the earthquake's center lay right in the heart of Skopje, the capital of the province of Macedonia. The downtown section was hardest hit.

The entire province of Macedonia, southeast of Belgrade, was mobilized for relief work.

Roads leading to the stricken city were jammed with trucks bringing in supplies and manpower and then turning around to evacuate the injured.

The town of Nis, northeast of Skopje, made space for 1,000 beds for the injured. Doctors were rushed in from all towns in the area.

Belgrade Radio described Skopje as a "great tragic working place."

The water supply was cut off and Yugoslav army units set up emergency distribution centers.

Telephone and telegraph lines were cut and radio provided the only link with the outside world. Tanjug said it was impossible to estimate the damage and this was born out by the first refugee to reach Belgrade from the historic capital of Macedonia.

He told of the most solidly built building in the city, the Yugoslav army barracks, being razed along with others.

Postmaster General Day Resigns Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy accepted today the resignation of Postmaster General J. Edward Day and told him he "brought to the position a high degree of management skill and dedication to the public interest."

Day submitted his resignation July 19 to become a partner in charge of the Washington law office of a Chicago firm.

Kennedy wrote Day that he accepted his resignation "with deep regret."

The resignation becomes effective Aug. 9.

Kennedy also told Day he appreciated "the sacrifice that you made when you agreed, in January 1961, to serve as postmaster general."

Day left a $60,000-a-year position as a West Coast insurance executive to join Kennedy's cabinet.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said there has been no decision on Day's successor.

There are rumors that it might be former Democratic Sen. Benjamin A. Smith of Massachusetts. Informal sources said, however, that neither Ben Smith, nor anyone else named Smith, was in line for the post.

86 Reds Escape Prison

Comb Caracas For Band Of Terrorists

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Troops and police today hunted 86 Communist terrorists and common criminals who broke out of prison in a wild fight in which 12 persons were reported killed and 51 wounded.

Some of the escaped convicts wore stolen police uniforms. A group so clad held up a filling station at dawn.

A wave of holdups and robberies were reported all over Caracas.

One of those who died was an attorney killed while standing at his window watching the gun fight between police and prisoners.

About 200 of the 816 terrorists and criminals at Reton La Planta prison—in a residential section of Caracas—participated in the break Thursday.

They overpowered 40 guards and poured out of the prison gates and a hole in a wall under construction. Troop reinforcements drove back all but 102. Sixteen were rounded up shortly afterward.

Scattered automatic fire was heard in parts of Caracas during the night. There were reports of a number of robberies and shootings.

Prison officials said imprisoned members of the Armed Forces of National Liberation known also as FALN, incited criminals to join them in the break.

The FALN, known for sabotage and attacks on Venezuelan and U.S.-owned installations and businesses, has vowed to overthrow President Romulo Betancourt's democratically elected government and set up a Castro-style regime.

War Movies Tougher To Make

WASHINGTON (AP)—Motion picture and television producers may find it tougher in the future to get the use of troops, fighting ships, warplanes and military technical advisers in making films.

Asst. Sec'y of Defense Arthur Sylvester told a reporter today his office is shaping final details of a directive that will tighten control over cooperation with companies in production of pictures with military themes.

The movie industry has registered objections, and the individual armed services aren't overly happy about the prospect. Changes have been made in the proposed policy to take account of some of the industry and service views, Sylvester said.

The Pentagon's information and public affairs chief said he anticipates that opponents of the policy will charge attempted censorship. He denied any such aim.

Sylvester contended that when movie and television producers receive the benefit of hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of government-owned equipment and military manpower, it is the Pentagon's responsibility to make sure the picture serves the national interest.

The purpose of the new directive is to enforce a requirement, already on the books, that industry requests for military cooperation be channeled through the Defense Department rather than through the services.

Under the new policy the Pentagon will require full and detailed information from the producers in advance of approval for military help. There may be a closer reading of scripts than in the past.

The armed services feel that movies and television shows portraying military life promote recruiting. But Sylvester said he is skeptical that there is any such

Clergymen In Jail Is Unusual

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

The words echoed against the steel walls of the jail cells. "The Lord is in His holy temple: let all the earth keep silence before Him." It was an odd temple and an unusual group of worshippers.

Yet the circumstances mirrored a piercing note of the times. The scene was a row of cells in Manhattan's 7th Precinct police station. Behind the bars were nine men, eight of them pastors of churches in the area. One clergyman was Negro; seven were white.

The nine had been arrested this week in a demonstration protesting alleged job discrimination against Negroes and Puerto Ricans at a city-sponsored housing project on the lower East Side. It was one in a wave of such cases in New York.

In this instance, the ministers—four Episcopalians, two Baptists and two Presbyterians—had locked arms, barring the way of construction vehicles. They were taken to jail on disorderly conduct charges.

Each of the clergymen was held in a small, one-man cell, about a yard and a half wide, and long enough for a steel-frame cot. They could not see each other, only the solid walls and the barred doors facing a narrow corridor.

At first, they recounted later, they sought to learn each other's whereabouts by calling back and forth but a police officer told them to shut up.

Moments later, the curious worship service began, each man alone, yet all joined together in the Scriptures, prayers, litanies and hymns. There were no more interruptions.

The interdenominational jailhouse service of morning prayer, from the English prayerbook, was led by the Rev. J. Michael Allen, pastor of historic St. Mark's in the-Bowdrie Episcopal church, the oldest religious site in Manhattan. Several of the other pastors had Bibles or prayerbooks with them.

"A mighty fortress is our God, a bulwark never failing," sang the little group confined at the 7th Precinct.

Newly formed into the "Lower East Side Fellowship of Ministers," they said they acted to point up what they termed violations of fair-employment practices laws by building trades unions at the city's Rutgers housing project.

Among the clergy, besides Father Allen, were three other Episcopal priests, Fathers Thomas Pike, William D. Dwyer and Richard E. Gary; two Presbyterians, the Revs. Davis W. Romig and Al Reuter, and two Baptists, the Revs. Richard E. Johnson and William C. Chapman, a Negro.

All serve lower East Side congregations.

At the close of their jail service, Father Allen bid the group to silent prayers for the police "that they may do justly," for other prisoners, past and future, and for "our city, our state and our country, that they may serve the Lord."

Removed from their cells later in the day, and arraigned, the group was released for a hearing Monday.

Accidents

Mary Elizabeth Goff, 3½-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Goff, 401 South Topping, Kansas City, was struck by a motor car Thursday afternoon near her home and is in a critical condition at Mercy hospital. Mary Elizabeth is the granddaughter of Mrs. Mary Lutjen, 641 East 19th, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goff, 301 South New York and a great granddaughter of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Blethroe, 400 North Grand.

The little girl received lacerations and a depressed skull fracture, and had two blood transfusions Thursday night. Her condition is still critical but she stands a chance of recovery, her parents were told, if there was no brain swelling or inward bleeding.

Mary Elizabeth was standing with a group of children, and hearing the ice cream truck darted out to run across the street home to get money for an ice cream cone running in front of a car driven by Joseph Anthony Cupito, who lives at 304 South Topping.

Cupito told police he did not see the child before the impact. Police said she was knocked 29 feet.

Her father was driving an interstate truck and was in Florida when the word reached him. He took a plane home, arriving in Kansas City at 11 o'clock Thursday night.

Two cars were damaged in a collision at Fourth and Kentucky at 3:38 p.m. Thursday.

Involved, police reported, were a 1961 Chevrolet, owned by the Sedalia Democrat Company, and driven by Russell Earl Petree, 28, 815 East 19th, and a 1963 Buick, driven by William W. Wisdom, 70, Tipton.

The right front fender of the Democrat vehicle and the left front of the Wisdom auto were damaged. Police reported the accident occurred as Petree was southbound on Kentucky and Wisdom was making a right hand turn from Fourth on to Kentucky.

A parked 1959 auto and a 1954 Pontiac driven by Carl J. Bricker, 27, Cottage Hill, Ill., were damaged in an accident at 403 East St. Louis at 1:40 a.m. Friday.

Police reported the parked car was owned by Tom W. Garrett, 38, Kansas City.

No injuries were reported in a motorcycle-car accident at Broadway and Emmett about 5:18 p.m. Thursday.

Senate Gears Grinding On The Test Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administration leaders have started Senate machinery rolling along what may be a twisting road to ratification of the nuclear test ban treaty.

Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman, who initiated the agreement Thursday in Moscow with Soviet and British negotiators, starts the congressional selling job Monday when he reports to three committees, possibly accompanied by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

To speed things up, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which has jurisdiction over treaties, invited members of the Senate Armed Services Committee and the Senate House Atomic Energy Committee to join in hearing Harriman's report behind closed doors.

Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Armed Services Committee, said that when the signed treaty is sent to the Senate for the required two-thirds approval he would not object to the three committees considering it jointly.

"It makes good sense and would save the time of senators and witnesses," Russell told newsmen. The Armed Services and Atomic committees will participate in consideration of the treaty because of its military and scientific aspects.

Russell added that the Joint Chiefs of Staff will be asked to testify. They are expected to support the ban on tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under water. Rusk already has tried to smooth the way for the treaty by showing all three committees copies of the proposed agreement.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana predicted ratification, although he said there will be opposition.

"It is a reasonable agreement with no side issue attached," he said. "Prospects for its ratification are growing steadily."

Since a ban on atmospheric tests would restrict fallout, the nuclear agreement "will meet with the greatest degree of acceptance," Mansfield said.

North Randolph, were involved in the mishap.

The rear bumper and left rear panel of the Chevrolet and the right side of the Oldsmobile were damaged.

Union Trying to Join Civil Rights March

NEW YORK (AP)—A mattress workers' union has voted to try and change a paid holiday from Columbus Day to Aug. 28 so its members can join the civil rights march to Washington.

The unanimous vote of several hundred members, about half of them white, was taken at a meeting of Local 140, Bedding, Curtain and Drapery Workers Union, AFL-CIO, Thursday.

Alex Sirote, local president, said the contract change would require the consent of employers. He acknowledged the move would cost the employers a day's work since Columbus Day falls on a Saturday, a regular off day. He offered to make up the time if employers request it.

Sirote said the contract change would allow the 2,000 local members to take part in the march without losing a day's pay.

Goldwater's Slight Edge No Worry for Rockefeller

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Strategists in Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's political planning division take calmly the accounts of Sen. Barry Goldwater's growing strength in such states as Arkansas, Maryland and Idaho.

The New York governor and the Arizona senator are the two men most prominently mentioned for the Republican nomination for president next year, although neither has formally announced as a candidate.

Many observers think Goldwater is well ahead. Even Rockefeller's most ardent supporters concede the governor lost ground this year when he married the divorced mother of four children.

Nevertheless Rockefeller is mounting a strong campaign for the nomination.

Reports of Goldwater strength are interpreted here not by numbers of states but by delegate strength in the nominating convention next July.

Details such as these occupy practical politicians, rather than the liberal vs. conservative philosophical debate that is attracting public attention.

There will be 53 delegations at the convention—the 50 states plus the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. They will comprise 1,308 delegates. A majority of 655 votes will be needed for nomination.

This is the way the Rockefeller strategists view the situation:

Goldwater's main strength lies in the South, Southwest and Midwest. Give him every vote in every delegation from the 28 states in those regions and he would have 573—short of the nomination.

The nine big industrial states—New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and California—will have a total of 512 votes. Rockefeller is counting on strong support from them.

He also looks to the 70 votes in the rest of New England, the 60 votes in the western states of Oregon, Washington and Colorado and to the 37 vote n the combined delegations from Alaska, Hawaii, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Other states are harder to classify, even in general terms.

The arithmetic exercises assume of course, a convention showdown between Rockefeller and Goldwater.

Initial balloting may see big delegations holding out for favorite sons—Govs. George Romney of Michigan or William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, both mentioned as serious candidates.

Some observers are talking of a Rockefeller-Goldwater stalemate that could send the convention searching for other candidates. Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky has been mentioned, in addition to Romney and Scranton. So has Richard M. Nixon, former vice president and the party's candidate in 1960.

from regulation by the Interstate Commerce Act. The agency operates in the St. Louis metropolitan area.

A similar bill was introduced in the House Tuesday by Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill.

Grenade Kills 2

PLACANICA, Italy (AP)—Five children from the same family found a grenade left over from World War II as they played near their country home Wednesday. It blew up in their hands, killing two sisters and a brother. Two brothers were injured.

Their mother, Anna Fazzolari, from the doorway of the house, saw the children playing with something metallic but thought it was a toy.

Drama of Human Interest

Anonymous Benefactor
Pays Way for Handicapped

"I never saw so much brush and rocks and sticks," said James Rennison as he settled down once again in his wheelchair, "and I'm tired from here down — but — so what?"

But James, a cerebral palsied youngster at the Children's Therapy Center, had gone on a hike at the Girl Scout Camp, along with other boys and girls from the Center, from the School for Retarded Children which is held at the Broadway Presbyterian Church building and educable retarded children in the public schools, at the day camp being held this week.

Monday it rained, and so the camp was out, but Tuesday there were 71 persons there with about the same number Wednesday, and 35 of that number was from one of those three groups.

The Day Camp is one of the most amazing real life human interest drama that has ever taken place here, for it was a first for so many people — and brought out so vividly the instinct for helping others.

Many of the retarded children had never seen a handicapped child before and were eager to help James and little Darlynn McBride, also a cerebral palsied child, to walk, to push the wheelchair or to do anything that they could for either of them.

Then there were girls, most of them Girl Scouts, a few of them members of the Future Nurses Club and some just young girls who have volunteered their services at the Children's Therapy Center for the summer, and a few boys whose mothers were helping at the Camp. Most of this youthful group had never seen retarded children before — but with out them the groupings felt they could never have managed. They took over the children with caring for them, playing with them, doing for them with patience and understanding.

Miss Janet Vavra, occupational therapist, in charge of the camp, was surprised at the manner in which these young people managed.

It was just before noon on Wednesday and all around the area were groups, some on the ground, some at picnic tables, some playing under the shade of big trees, some playing ball or swinging and some building a fire in the big brick oven preparing for the wieners roast, while others dragged in firewood.

The retarded children did things right along with the Girl Scouts and the other girls. It was fun to gather the firewood — that was being responsible for something. Others helped to put newspaper tablecloths on with adhesive paper and some picked up papers that were blowing around because they knew they must keep the grounds neat.

One group was shooting bows and arrows made from sticks and string, and one boy was an Indian with his paper feather cap that the children had made during the morning. They had beautifully decorated paper plates with real flowers and weeds that they had made, too.

A girl directing the gathering of the firewood and doing considerable gathering herself, had blisters on her hands from her volunteer work, a boy in a bright red shirt roasted four or five wieners at a time on a forked stick for the children gathered around him, girls helped those who could not help themselves fill their plates.

There were wieners and buns, baked beans, deviled eggs, pickles, mustard, milk and the children wandered around eating or found places at the tables. Some of the girls took a group of them over under a tree and sat down in true picnic fashion.

"I don't want this," said a little boy, "it's burnt."

"Oh, that's the way it should be," J. E. Van Dyke, Jefferson City, executive director of the State Association for Retarded Children, told him — "why people pay big money to get food like that."

The child looked up at him — "I don't want it," he said. It was burnt black but some people like them like that and you kinda wonder sometimes who is retarded — but this little boy knew he didn't want any burnt food and he wouldn't eat it — he took deviled eggs and beans instead.

A little girl rolled her hotdog in ashes a couple of times, announced it was done and ate it. A little boy held to his plate and a carton of milk saying over and over: "I gotta have a straw."

Just before the wieners roast a little girl complained of being hungry, and was told she had to go take her medicine.

"I don't like to take medicine," she said as she went running to the house for that purpose, her dark hair flying in the breeze.

J. D. Walker, director of the Children's Therapy Center, watched as she ran. "A year ago she couldn't walk or talk," he said. "She had had a stroke and was left almost helpless. She would still be if it hadn't been for the Center and the therapy — and now, one of these days she will again be able to enter public school again. Her mind is bright," he said.

"I want my mama" one small girl cried on Monday, but Miss Vavra took her in the house and they played games. When they started home that night she came to her shyly and asked: "Miss Janet, may I come back tomorrow?"

The girls and boys helping at the camp which will be every day through Friday from 9 a.m. in the morning until in the afternoon, are: Ellen Cromley, Becki Ray, Cindy Delph, Karen Kay, Sherry Fingland, Dana Routsong, Barbara Vaught, Carol Vaught, Nancy Gray, Melford Baker, Martin Baker, Phil Cromley, Ken Cromley, Dolores Sims, Linda Flippin, Susan Long, Sara Studer, Macki Silverman, Dee Dee Silverman, Cynthia Stauffacher, Pam Jones, Becki Frownfelter, Wanda Vaught, Jerri Schroeder, Janice Wright, Gail Thurber, Sheri Parker, Markey McCune, Anne Sillers and Lou Ann Lange.

Adults were Mrs. Jessie Baker, Mrs. Harold Norton, Mrs. Upton and Mrs. Glenn Cromley.

The majority of the children are between the ages of seven and 13, some are a bit older.

There were only ten at the camp last year, so this is the $400 for Center

J. D. Walker, director of the Children's Therapy Center at the Bothwell Hospital has received a check in the amount of $400 from Mrs. Kevin Casey, president of the Officers Wives Club at Whiteman Air Force Base.

The money was donated by the wives club to further assist the Children's Center in their work with children throughout Pettis County as well as Whiteman Air Force Base.

Civil Service

Joe Hoehns, formerly of 506 East 13th, has been appointed to the position of investigator trainee with the Investigations Division of the St. Louis Region of the United States Civil Service Commission. He has just completed the training course conducted by the Bureau of Personnel Investigations, U.S. Civil Service Commission in Washington, D.C., and has been assigned to the commission's offices in St. Louis.

Hoehns received a bachelors degree in education from Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, in June, 1963. He is married to the former Miss Roberta Whitlatch of Knoxville, Ia. Joe is the son of Leo H. Hoehns, Smithton.

Hoehns' appointment to a position with the Civil Service Commission is a result of his competing in the Federal Service Entrance Examination, an examination to college-level applicants for appointment to positions in the Federal Service.

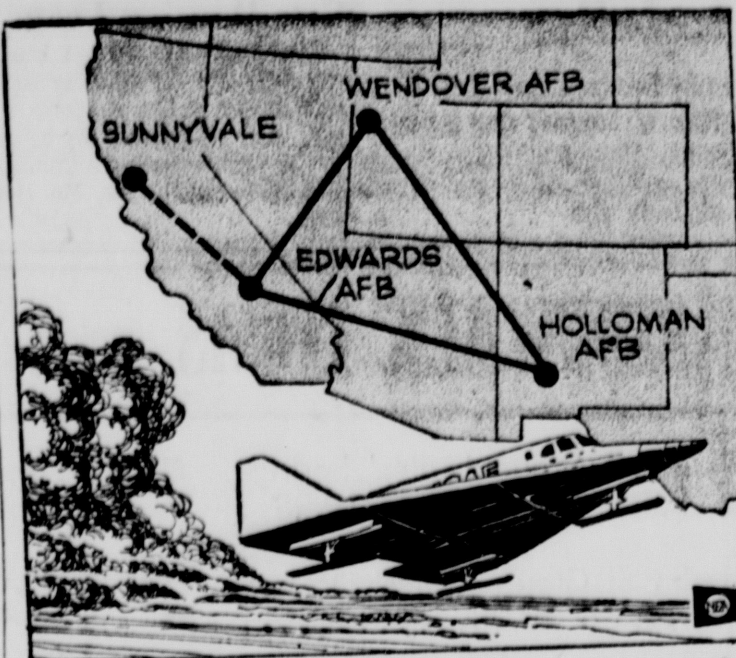

first time most of them have ever been in the out-of-doors.

"We found bear tracks and suckers," said James Rennison, from his wheelchair — that was a game for the youngsters on their hike — "and there was where somebody had had an old fire — it was still there." James walked on the hike with one of the girls on each side of him to help him, and so did Darlynn.

The camp starts with the pledge of allegiance and the raising of the flag, and there are certain things to do at times, but mostly the program is a flexible program left to the imagination of the children or the counselors.

But for them all it is an enchanting time and all the expenses, for food, for materials, for everything, is being paid for by one man — a man who will not let his name be known to anyone — and so, all the bills are given to J. D. Walker, who turns them over to this man who wants to give but remain anonymous.

Indian Burial Ground
Found at Arnold, Mo.

ARNOLD, Mo. (AP)—Bulldozers clearing land for a housing development in the Flamm City area near Arnold have uncovered what apparently is an old Indian burial ground.

Elmer Kimbrel of Foley, Mo., supervisor of the bulldozer crews, said bodies were buried in limestone caskets about 15 inches below the earth's surface. Kimbrel said the graves were in circular patterns with an adult in the center, surrounded by children's graves.

Kimbrel said the graves first were discovered two days ago in the Bayshore development area in Jefferson County just across

Segregation In British Guiana

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—British Guiana is a soft, moist country of green and brown; of flaming crimson six-foot high gladioli and lily pads shaped like circular trays four feet in diameter.

This is the home of an articulate people. There's a lawyer for every 3,000 persons. The literacy rate, 86 per cent, is among the highest in the hemisphere.

The Guianese are a mobile society. Every seventh person in a population of nearly 600,000 owns or operates a bicycle.

The greater part of the population consists roughly of 300,000 East Indian descendants and 200,000 Negroes. And this makes British Guiana a deeply troubled land.

In a world of crumbling racial prejudices, the Guianese are beginning to practice segregation.

The village of Buxton, where violence between Negroes and East Indians had its most explosive moments this month, is the cradle of an infant but growing partition movement.

Scores of Indians have abandoned their homes there to seek the protection of communities where Indians are a majority. Negroes are leaving predominantly Indian centers.

Why can't these people get along together?

They are different culturally and physically. It seems their only common ground is the dreariness of poverty.

Generally speaking, the Indian is a man of the soil. At a higher economic level he is a shopkeeper.

Academically, the Indian is a half century behind the Negro, who preceded him on the land. But he has become a formidable economic factor in the land that first knew him as an indentured slave. His race has given British Guiana its prime minister, Dr. Cheddi Jagan, 46.

The Negro lives mostly in Georgetown. He is the country's intellectual elite, the professional, the student, teacher and civil servant.

The opposition leader is a Negro, Forbes Burnham, 40, a large, melancholy-eyed lawyer, brilliant orator and shrewd politician.

Mutual contempt between Negroes and East Indians bubbled to the surface during the costly 80-day general strike. This burst into racial violence that left 10 known dead, scores injured during a two-week period early this month.

Near the village of Plaisance, an Indian rice planter, Jagat Rahaman, said:

"The Negro doesn't want to work in the field at all. He's only interested in a job in the city, good clothes, drinking and a good time."

James Fraser, 40, a store clerk in Georgetown, complained:

"The Indian is a money grubber, over ambitious and unsocialable."

Some people here believe the races are naturally incompatible. They point out that rumblings of the same problems are being heard in Trinidad, where the Indian minority is fast catching up numerically with the Negro majority.

At the heart of this incompatibility, it is thought, are the fears of each race that it will be ruled by the other.

Dior Reveals Daring Fashions

PARIS — (AP) — Christian Dior today showed the most daring low cut bosom line in years—but left the hemline modestly just covering the kneecap.

The House of Dior, a recognized fashion leader, tightly strapped down bosoms but left them to bulge seductively in vampire sheaths and low, square necklines.

Bloused cocktail dresses were left wide open, revealing almost the entire bosom.

Designer Marc Bohan, in the fall and winter designs given their first showing this morning, lifted waistlines in shifts and chemise dresses—mostly in the evening models—to just below the pushed-up bosom. The torso was elongated.

The greater exposure of the bosom applied only to certain types of dresses. Fashion observers did not expect it to change the course of designing history.

The program for the showing

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT—Sedalia, Mo., Fri., July 26, 1963 7

explained that the models had opened the way for a drop in the winter hemline. This possibly hemline next spring.

Let the Experts Speak...

American lawyers still may not be facing their great responsibilities in this period of racial strife and constitutional test.

It is commendable, of course, that leaders of the bar have agreed to establish a committee to work for eased tensions.

But this could mean no more than that lawyers would offer their services as negotiators and pacifiers in difficult situations, just as any civic-minded citizens might do.

What is needed from lawyers is something they can contribute uniquely: a brighter, clearer light on the broad range of constitutional controversies which have been stirred as the racial struggle has sharpened.

The lawyers could start at an elemental level, with profit to all of us.

For example, what are "civil" rights? To what extent are they federal in character, whether or not spelled out in the United States Constitution?

Article Nine of the Constitution's Bill of Rights says "the enumeration in the Constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people."

What does that mean? Lawyers ought to be able to tell us what the courts and the country's best legal minds think.

Then, what are states' rights?

The other day, Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi said "a state that loses the right to excise exclusive jurisdiction over its own affairs loses its political soul and its citizens have lost their most valuable freedom."

The key there, obviously, is knowing what is meant by a state's "own affairs." If a federal "right" conflicts with a state "power," which takes precedence?

U.S. lawyers have been painfully reticent on this vital subject, though it is tightly bound up in the present racial turmoil.

Southerners dispute the validity of the powerful 14th amendment, whose "equal protection under the laws" clause is the foundation of so many recent Supreme Court decisions.

What do the courts, the lawyers and the legal scholars say about the soundness of this amendment's status as law?

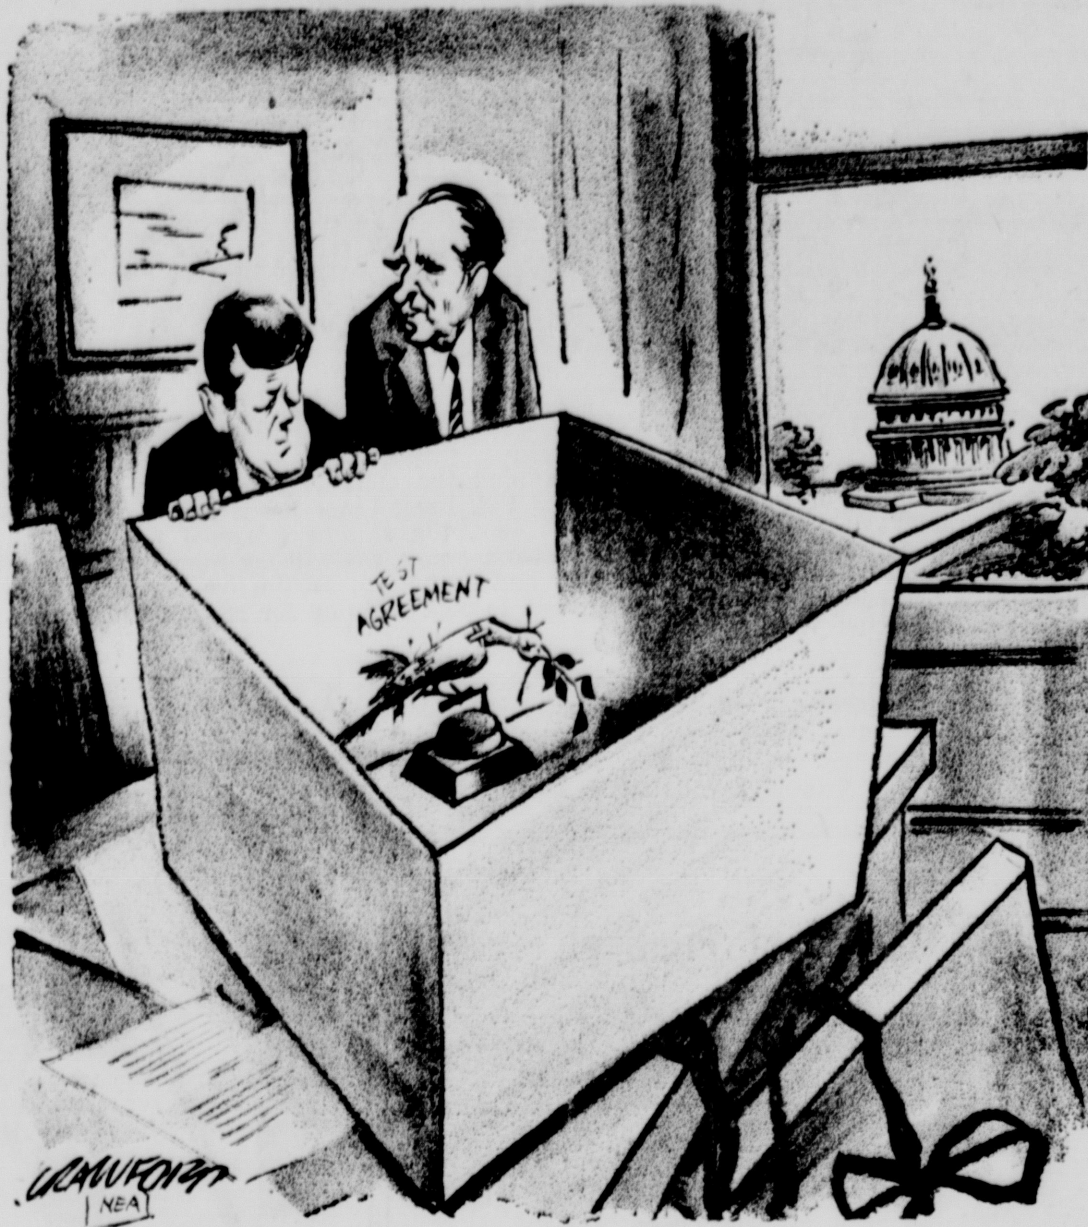

Who is sovereign, the federal government or the states? It may surprise many to know that the word is nowhere mentioned in the Constitution or any of its 23 amendments.

A line in the Constitution's main body says "the citizens of each state shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several states."

Those words are seldom spoken these days. What do they mean?

The Constitution, invested with more immediacy in our lives than ever before, cannot be the plaything of the amateurs. Let's hear from the strangely silent experts.

"You Suppose the Boys on the Hill Will Jump for Joy?"

The World Today

Reasons for Keeping Fingers Crossed

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nuclear test ban agreement looks like a leap forward in the history of mankind. And maybe it is. But it wasn't unselfish and there are reasons for keeping your fingers crossed.

This was the first accord between the West and Russia in this field after almost continuous talking since World War II. It could be the beginning of much better relations and even more far-reaching understandings.

But the motives were not all strictly humanitarian when the Americans, British and Russians Thursday in Moscow agreed to stop testing in the atmosphere, outer space and under the sea.

This country and Russia have about all the nuclear weapons they seem to think they need. It will take anyone else years to catch up. Testing is highly expensive. So by not testing they save money.

Certainly in time more nations will develop nuclear weapons of their own. The more the nations that have them, the greater the danger of triggering a world war.

The Americans, British and Russians hope by their agreement to discourage other would-be nuclear powers from going on to create their own nuclear weapons and test them.

For this reason Thursday's signers suggested other nations join their agreement. If there's no more testing by anyone, the world is spared radioactive fallout. That would be an improvement but it's far from a sure bet.

The French are known to be developing nuclear weapons and the Red Chinese are suspected of doing so. The French have already done some testing, will probably do more. The Chinese are expected to start theirs in a year or two.

Neither is bound by the Moscow agreement. And Thursday in Paris the French foreign minister, Maurice Couve de Murville, said that so long as the great nuclear powers do not disarm, then any ban on nuclear testing that they agree on is a device to try to freeze their monopoly.

The Red Chinese denounced the agreement before it was reached. Since they are breaking away from Russia, whom they distrust they will undoubtedly try to build their own nuclear arsenal so as to be a match for Russia and the West.

Whether Russia abandons the agreement if the French test, or the United States does likewise if the Chinese test, remains to be seen. Their agreement said any signer can ignore it if it thinks its interests are being jeopardized.

With the agreement only one day old, no one, including the signers, can say confidently how long it will last.

Nevertheless, because this country and Russia are years ahead of anyone else, they may not feel it necessary for some time to abandon the no-test agreement no matter what France and China do.

For Soviet Premier Khrushchev the agreement served several purposes besides those mentioned.

For one thing, he can make propaganda out of it by waving it as an example of Russia's good intentions. Then there was his fight with the Red Chinese.

They had denounced him before the rest of the Communist world for insisting communism could do business with the West. The agreement is tangible evidence that it can. So the agreement supports his argument. There's more.

Testing takes a lot of money, time, energy and manpower. An end to testing enables Khrushchev to use some of these resources in his trouble with the Red Chinese who now look like his closest, and perhaps his worst, enemy.

What was left out of the Moscow agreement is a good reminder to romantics that this accord does not quite mean a completely new era in East-West relations. The three signers left themselves some out.

They did not agree to stop testing underground. There all three can test new ideas for improving weapons or fashioning entirely new ones.

The agreement Thursday to ban tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under the sea could have been reached some time ago since cheating in those regions can be detected without having inspectors in the cheating country.

Not so with underground tests. The United States has insisted it would not agree to ban tests underground unless Russia agreed to permit inspectors inside the Soviet Union while other inspectors checked inside the United States.

Russia called such inspection spying and refused to agree. In time, maybe agreement can be reached on this, too. Perhaps Thursday's agreement was just the first of many. Don't bet on it until it happens.

DEAR POLLY — Here is another timesaver for housewives who are hurriedly cleaning before guests arrive. The bathroom may be a mess and you find you're out of your regular cleanser. Have both the tub and the sink fixtures

If you are in the age group often referred to as "senior citizens," has it ever occurred to you that you have a personal responsibility to all the younger persons you know?

It hasn't? Well, in speaking to a governors' conference on aging, Dr. Edward Bortz, a senior consultant at a Philadelphia hospital, urged persons in their maturity to make their lives attractive to young people.

"How can young people," he he asked, "look forward to growing old if they don't like the senior citizens with whom they come in contact?"

He also reminded his listeners that it is worse to have "a hardening of the heart and the mind than of the arteries."

How do you go about being the kind of older person that young people admire and respect, the kind that makes them think, "That's how I would like to be when I'm that age."?

Never stop taking pride in your appearance. It is every bit as important to make the most of your looks at 80 as at 18; perhaps even more important.

Look ahead, instead of looking back. Dr. Bortz also said: "A person becomes old when he can no longer look ahead."

Don't let yourself grow self-centered. Be genuinely interested in the lives and the problems of others. Avoid being interested only in how you feel, what you think, and what others should be doing for you.

Keep your sense of humor. There's no one more delightful than an older person with a ready joke, a twinkle in the eye, and a hearty laugh that comes easily and often.

All Insects Can Irritate, But Ticks Win Top Honors

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Bees, wasps and hornets are not the only insects that may cause trouble this summer, although they are the commonest causes of severe discomfort.

The next most dangerous is the wood tick which is not truly an insect. Insects have six legs and ticks and other arthropods have eight. Ticks are common in grassy and wooded areas. They drop from low bushes or grass stalks onto animals or persons and spend several hours crawling around looking for a relatively undisturbed place in which to feed.

Before they attach themselves to the skin they can be readily brushed off. They feed by burrowing the length of their head into the skin then sucking your blood.

This would do you no harm were it not for the fact that they carry the germs of Rocky Mountain spotted fever in their saliva and will pass it on to you without a quail. Once they are firmly attached to the skin they cannot be brushed off but the quicker they are removed the better.

If not removed they have been known to remain attached to the skin for over a week. They can be removed by touching them with the end of a match that has been struck and then blown out, or by coating them completely with finger nail lacquer or a thick oil then gently pulling them out with tweezers.

Do not use your fingers to pull them out or crush them because in this way you may get infectious matter on you. Once removed, the tick should be dropped into a fire or into kerosene, alcohol or turpentine. If in removing them the head remains buried in your skin as sometimes happens, it must be dug out. This is a painful process at best.

When the tick has been removed, whether whole or piecemeal, the wound should be painted with tincture of iodine and the hands should be thoroughly washed with soap and water.

When you go into a tick-infested area wear protective clothing with elastic at the openings. High boots provide a further protection. The clothing should be sprayed with a tick repellent such as diethyltoluamide (Deet). The body and clothing should be inspected daily or better still twice a day for ticks. This type of clothing also protects against chiggers.

Q—What is thyrotoxicosis?

A—It is a condition in which the thyroid puts out too much thyroxine, the substance the thyroid normally secretes into the blood. This may cause a type of goiter or enlargement of the thyroid known as toxic goiter.

Q—What can be done to relieve twitching of the eyelids?

A—This common complaint is almost always due to fatigue. Get more rest at night regularly and the twitching should stop after a few days. That doesn't mean that it won't return if you get overtired again.

James Garner's Nose Told Of Garlic In the Area

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—All his life the young private had hated garlic.

One night a dozen years ago while on outpost duty atop a nameless ridge in Korea, he suddenly sniffed as a breeze wafted through the still blackness an odor he despised.

"I smell garlic," replied the private. "There must be an enemy patrol out there. Everything they eat is full of garlic."

They argued with him for a while, saying it was impossible for anyone to smell even garlic at that distance. Finally, as a precautionary measure they called for an artillery barrage on the dark ravine below.

"The next morning," recalled the private, now actor James Garner, "we found five men in the ravine."

Garlic no longer is a problem to Jim. Today he's enjoying the sweet smell of success as one of Hollywood's brightest new stars, after springboarding to fame in television.

Jim, currently starred with Doris Day in Universal's comedy, "The Thrill of It All," became an actor by accident.

"I didn't act until I was 25 or 26," Garner said. "I was scared to death of it."

Restless after 14 months service overseas and unable to decide on a career, he chanced to spy the name of producer Paul Gregory on a Los Angeles office building. Could that be the same Paul Gregory, then a soda jerk, he had known some years before?

It was. Gregory suggested Garner become an actor. Jim didn't think he was cut out for it. After a tryout, a studio drama coach agreed with Garner.

Gregory landed him a bit part in a touring company of "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial." As one of the judges who spoke not a single line, Garner sat silently through some 512 performances.

"But the time wasn't wasted," remarked Jim. "I studied every performer's actions, learned what I could from him."

Garner next went from small to larger film roles. Then hit the big time in television in the "Maverick" series. A bit gunshy after appearing in 60 or 70 of its episodes, Jim returned to his first love—movies—and hopes to go on making pictures until he becomes to old and tired to carry the money all the way to the bank.

Revolutionary Check Proposal

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Premier Khrushchev's proposal to place military missions inside Russia and the United States to guard against surprise military build-up sounds like a revolutionary proposal.

But what most people don't know is that exactly this was done during the Cuban crisis.

Last October as the two most powerful nations in the world were looking down the gun barrel of atomic war, the United States had helicopters flying over East Germany to make sure the Red army was not rolling up troops for an attack on Berlin. Simultaneously the Red army had helicopters flying over West Germany to watch for the same regarding the United States.

This was no accident, but by long-standing agreement that both the United States and Russia may station military missions on East and West German soil to check on possible surprise attacks.

The fact that the Red army was not mobilizing in Eastern Europe was one reason President Kennedy felt more confident there would be no war over Cuba.

Extension of this plan to the entire United States, and Russia to prevent surprise attack would really indicate that Khrushchev means business when he talks peace.

Plumbers vs. Lawyers

AFL-CIO President George Meany was testifying on civil rights before the House judiciary committee, a group composed entirely of lawyer-congressmen. Chairman Mann Celler of New York interrupted:

"You probably are not a lawyer, Mr. Meany," he observed.

"I have often been thankful for that," gruffly responded Meany. "My profession is much more important. I am a plumber."

JFK and Dirksen Agree

President Kennedy and Senate GOP leader Everett Dirksen, separately pondering the threat of a railroad strike, came up with almost identically the same solution last week.

Early Monday morning, the President invited congressional leaders to the White House to listen to his idea of turning the railroad dispute over to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

After Kennedy explained his proposal, Dirksen pulled a handwritten memo out of his pocket.

"Mr. President," he said, "I had no way to know what you were thinking. But I also gave this problem a lot of thought over the weekend. I came up with the following. I would like to read it."

Then he read his own proposal to refer the dispute to the ICC and forbid a strike while a settlement was being worked out.

Kennedy grinned.

"This is a pleasant surprise," he said.

But opposition was expressed by Dirksen's Republican colleagues. House GOP leader Charlie Halleck of Indiana and Arizona Senator Barry Goldwater, who wanted a tougher

MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL APPEAL: A

Real Traffic Problem.—There is never any telling what will bob up in the traffic situation of any given American city, but we think perhaps the police in Fort Worth may just claim a first. Somebody stole an M-48 tank down there the other evening and drove it back and forth and around and about in a city park for half an hour before midnight.

The officers played tag but were obviously at a tremendous disadvantage against their 43-ton opponent. Finally the tank thief sent it rumbling across a small creek and was long gone by the time police detoured and caught up. As has been truly said so many times, taking one consideration with another, a policeman's lot is not a happy one.

law by which the government could stop a railroad strike by injunction.

Oregon's bristle-browed Senator Wayne Morse promptly objected.

"This would substitute the power of injunction in place of reason and collective bargaining," he protested.

Most of the leaders behind closed White House doors nodded their agreement.

Thumbing Ride With JFK

Suzanne Woods, an enterprising secretary on the staff of Sen. Dan Inouye, the Hawaiian Democrat, was out in California last month while President Kennedy was also on the west coast, and managed to thumb her way back on a presidential plane. However, it cost her her job.

What happened was that Miss Woods found herself without funds, and it being a long way back to Washington, she telephoned Larry O'Brien, assistant to President Kennedy, explained that she was on the staff of Democratic Senator Inouye and asked for a ride home on the President's plane.

The obliging Mr. O'Brien obliged, gave Miss Woods a ride to Washington on the President's back-up plane.

Later the White House called Sen. Inouye's office, said that they had been delighted to be of help to the senator's secretary.

At this point, Sen. Inouye fired Miss Woods. He explained that he did not want his staff throwing their weight around, also objected to the general principle of free rides on government planes. Inouye has been careful not to take these rides himself, even though as a badly wounded, one-armed veteran of World War II he is entitled to them.

Miss Woods, a lady of twenty, with plenty of initiative, has now got a job in New York with the international students and is quite happy.

Replacing Bible Reading

To replace prayer and Bible reading in the schools, Rep. Charles Bennett, D-Fla., is proposing a plan to study the effects of crime and dishonesty in the public schools of the nation.

The congressman from northern Florida has been alarmed at the high juvenile delinquency rate in Washington and other big cities; also at the fact that 200,000 books each year are stolen from the Brooklyn Public Library, and that the rate of embezzlement in banks and business firms has been growing.

So he proposes that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare encourage the schools to teach courses on crime and its results on a person, a family, and the community.

"A crime expert who shows a class of teenagers graphically what will happen when they take the first small step toward dishonesty," says Rep. Bennett, "might have more impact in the schools than reading dull passages from the Bible."

The congressman is a great devotee of the Bible, but since it has now been outlawed believes something should take its place.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My husband has a business friend who is a grand person of excellent character Mr. F. C. (Fine Citizen) has contributed a great deal to our community and he is admired and respected by all who know him.

Mr. F. C. has a fault which is widely discussed behind his back but nobody wants to come right out and tell him. He has a handshake like a dead fish. I feel it is sheer gutlessness on the part of people who call themselves "friends" to keep quiet about this. Isn't it a shame for Mr. F. C. to go through life with this terrible fault when it could be so easily remedied?

I've urged my husband to do this man a favor and tell him. My husband says he has no desire to make anybody over, nor does he want to jeopardize his friendship by risking offending the man. What do you say?—TO TELL OR NOT TO TELL?

Dear To Tell: People are not born with a firm handshake or a limp one. It's something they learn.

Apparently Mr. F. C. has been handing out dead fish for years because no one ever told him that a limp handshake suggests a lack of interest and enthusiasm. Why don't you send him this column—anonously?

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a middle-aged woman who has been going with a respectable widower for almost four years. Theodore is 15 years older than I am, but doesn't look his age. He enjoys art galleries, picnics, concerts and flower shows as I do.

I am not trying to marry him so he need have no fears along that line. He is a pleasant, intelligent, attractive person and I'm sure he enjoys my companionship as I do his.

Something happened last week which upset me terribly. Theodore invited me to his home to see his rock garden. When we pulled into his drive we found his son and daughter-in-law's car parked there. Without saying a word Theodore backed right out of the driveway and drove me straight home. He offered no explanation but said, "I'll phone you later in the week." What do you make of his strange behavior?—INSULTED AND PUZZLED.

Dear I. and P.: Obviously, Theodore did not want his children to see him bringing a woman to his home. Such behavior, of course, demonstrates an enormous lack of maturity.

If you are content to be his companion continue to see him. But don't harbor any secret hopes that this relationship will ever go beyond that stage.

Dear Ann Landers: My daughter is 16 years of age. She is a good-looking girl with a beautiful, clear, peaches-and-cream complexion. Yet she insists on covering her face with a pancake foundation which gives her an artificial, masked look. She makes up only her face and forgets about her neck, so of course, her neck is about five shades lighter.

Several of her girl friends do this, also. One friend has an unfortunate complexion and the make-up does cover some of the blemishes. But why would young girls with lovely complexions want to cover them up with make-up? Please explain.—ONLY HER MOTHER.

Dear Only: Girls who do this imagine the gunk makes them look glamorous. Someone ought to tell them that the wholesome scrubbed look is in and the pasty-faced, consumptive look is out.

Confidential to JUST NOSEY: Your informed source is misinformed. I don't wear a wig. I have never worn a wig. I have no plans to buy a wig.

Proves That Tarzan Is Indestructible

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Even an articulate Tarzan is indestructible.

Producer Sy Weintraub had the heads shaking in Hollywood a few years ago when he decided to tamper with a champion. Since World War I, Tarzan had grunted to the tune of a record $500 million at the box office. At the height of his fame the most Johnny Weissmuller ever uttered was, "Me Tarzan. You Jane."

Then, Weintraub paid more than $3 million for Tarzan television and movie rights.

Immediately he took Tarzan from the MGM backlot to the real jungle of Africa, got rid of Jane and made Tarzan a bachelor.

Instead of a grunt he had the ape man talking in intelligent sentences.

What has been the result? "Well," answers Weintraub, "I got my $3 million back in less than 18 months—and Tarzan is making more money than ever." Since Africa, there has been "Tarzan Goes to India" and "Tarzan's Three Challenges," made in Thailand. The next will be

St. Joseph Loses One-Sided Play To Stockton Walnuts in Tourney

Lambirth Holds St. Joe To Single Hit in Game

The Stockton "Walnuts" gave St. Joseph a sound 14-1 drubbing in the first game Thursday night in the state Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament on the Liberty Park baseball diamond.

Lynn Lambirth, the Stockton hurler, held the St. Joseph squad to a single hit, while Stockton pounded out 12 hits, including a three run homer in the fourth. Clobbering the home run was Stockton catcher Roy Cunningham. It was the third homer of the tourney.

Stockton put over four runs in the top of the first inning, leaving no doubt of their desire for the victory. St. Joseph's lone run came in the bottom of the sixth on a wild pitch.

Scheduled to play tonight are Springfield and Chillicothe at 7 p. m., with the Jefferson City Red Birds to face the Kirksville Merchants at 9 p. m.

Saturday night in the winner's bracket elimination, the Sedalia Merchants will play Columbia at 9 p. m., with Bolivar and Concordia to clash in the 7 o'clock game for the right to continue in the tourney.

How the scoring went in the first game:

Stockton wasted no time in starting their attack, scoring four runs in the top of the first inning. Dick Hocker got on with a walk, and Jerry Kirksey flied out to left. Then the St. Joe second baseman, attempting a double play on a bouncing ball by Bernie Brown, overthrew the shortstop covering second, with everyone safe. Roy Cunningham singled, scoring Hocker and Lusk. After Jim Powers struck out, John Woolridge and Gary Griffin got singles, each driving in a run. Then Lynn Lambirth walked and Hocker, who had started the inning, popped out to the first baseman.

St. Joseph was scoreless in the bottom of the first, with the "Walnuts" coming back to make it 5-0 in the second. With one out, Roland Lusk put a base hit through the hole into left. After moving to second, Lusk scored on Roy Cunningham's base hit to left center.

Continuing their determined attack, Stockton put across four runs in the fourth. Jerry Kirksey led off with a double off the centerfield wall. Then Lusk walked and advanced to second on a double steal. A base hit by Bernie Brown scored Kirksey from third, making the score 6-0. A home run by catcher Roy Cunningham over the 354 foot mark in center field netted the "Walnuts" three more runs, moving the score to 9-0. St. Joe then retired the side.

After a scoreless St. Joseph fourth, Stockton scored two runs in the fifth. With one man out, St. Joe's new pitcher, Perry, walked Jerry Kirksey, who moved from first to third on an error on the first baseman and scored on a wild pitch. Roland Lusk struck out, and Bernie Brown walked. Brown went to second on a passed ball. Then a long single by Roy Cunningham and a single by Jim Powers scored Stockton's eleventh run.

The relentless attack by Stockton continued in the sixth, with three men crossing the plate. Frank Harmon led off with a single, followed by an infield hit by Lynn Lambirth. Dick Hocker then tapped the ball in front of the plate, and reached first on an error on the catcher's throw to first. Harmon scored on the play. After Hocker stole second, Jerry Kirksey loaded the bases with a base hit. Then Roland Lusk's long fly to right, which was caught, netted the second run of the inning, with Lambirth scoring after tagging up. With Bernie Brown batting, Hocker stole home, making it 14-0 in favor of Stockton. Brown struck out, as did Roy Cunningham.

The one St. Joseph run came in the bottom of the sixth and last inning. The pitcher, Perry, led off with a base hit. Baxter then hit a bouncing ball and was out at first, but moved the runner to second. Atkins then struck out. An error on the catcher after Cooper struck out allowed Cooper to reach first, and a wild throw to first allowed Perry to score. Armstrong bounced out to end the game.

The game lasted only six innings because of the one-sided score.

Art Gaines 9, Warsaw 2
In the second game Thursday night, the Art Gaines Baseball School team came through to protect their first two inning lead of six runs and won the game against the Warsaw Merchants 9 to 2. Rich Sammons, pitcher for Art Gaines, had a no-hit game running until the top of the fifth when relief pitcher Jim Schnakenberg put a stop to it with a double to right field.

Incidentally, Sammons tied Larry Bowes of Pleasant Hill in the strikeout department, collecting 19 against Warsaw.

The win moved Art Gaines to the winners' bracket to meet Stockton on Sunday, July 28, at 9 o'clock while St. Joseph moved to the losers' bracket to meet Warsaw in the 7 o'clock game that day.

How the runs were scored:
The Art Gaines aggregation started out to make it a business affair and scored three runs in the bottom of the first inning. It happened fast when Phil Waddell led off with a single to right field and when Scott Newkirk fumbled the ball he went to second on the error. Pitcher Rich Sammons then rapped a single to left field and Waddell scored. Sammons went to second on the throw in. Max Matthews struck out. Alex Williams up and with the count one and one, Jack Breshear balked and Sammons was waved across the plate. Williams singled to short, Jack Tarr hit a high ball to centerfield which was dropped by Ken Kluter. Mike White singled to left and Williams scored. Peckerell forced White at second. Jack Tarr struck out. Three runs, four hits, two errors, two left.

The Gaines squad put on another rally in the second inning resulting in pitcher Jack Breshears going to the showers with Jim Schnakenberg going in as his relief. John Kesselak was safe on the error of Roy Pickens, went to second on a wild pitch and to third on a passed ball. Waddell struckout. Sammons singled to centerfield, and Kesselak scored. Mathews singled past second and on Kluter's error moved on to second as Sammons scored. Williams then was caught between Warsaw broke their scoring silence in the top of the sixth when Ray Schnakenberg opened the inning beating out an infield hit. B. Breshears flied to Rosen. Jim Husong singled to left. Pickens struck out. Akers singled to center scoring Schnakenberg. Husong to third. Weist singled to right center to score Husong. Jim Schnakenberg was out, short to second. Two runs, four hits and no errors, two left on.

Art Gaines in the lower half of the inning scored two runs when Waddell led off, flying out to second. Sammons grounded to third. Mathews was safe on the shortstop's error, going to second on the throw. Williams singled to right field and Mathews scored. Tarr hit a double to the right field fence, and Williams scored from first. White grounded out to shortstop. Two runs, two hits, two errors and one left on.

Warsaw made a threat in the top of the seventh when the first two batters were safe on errors. R. Schnakenberg struck out. B. Breshears walked, Husong and Pickens struck out to end the inning with three left on.

In the bottom half of the inning Art Gaines came back to score one run. Peckerell was safe on the third baseman's error. Wetzel struck out. Kesselak struck out. Waddell singled past second and Peckerell scored. Sammons flied out to third. One run, one hit, two errors, two left on.

Pleasant Hill 9, WAFB 4
Pleasant Hill came through in the second game Wednesday night to defeat Whiteman Air Force Base by a score of 9 to 4. It was a tight affair up to the top of the sixth when Pleasant Hill put over a three-run rally which set the scoring pattern. The rally moved them ahead of Whiteman who had scored one in the bottom of the fourth.

Whiteman made an attempt to tie it up in the bottom of the sixth, but was able to collect only one run. Pleasant Hill came back with two more in the seventh, four in the eighth and none in the ninth. Whiteman picked up two in the bottom of the eighth and that ended their scoring.

Larry Ford hit the 2nd homer of the tournament when he sent a long drive over the left field fence at the 325 foot mark.

Larry Bowes on the mound for Pleasant Hill sent 19 of the Whiteman Air Force batters down via the strike out route. He was in trouble in the bottom of the eighth loading the bases on three walks and forced in a run on a walk with only one out. Some good teamwork helped him for the second out and he worked out of a 3-2 count by striking out Jim Hassett to retire the sides.

The ice was broken in a pitchers duel when in the bottom of the fourth the Whiteman Air Force Base came through to score a lone run. Bill Coons opened the bottom half of the inning with a sharp single to center. T. Savalto struck out, Coons moved to second, Dave Long was out, Boyd to Mayfield, with Coons advancing to third. Jim Coons safe on Compton's error and Bill Coons scored. John Hassett struck out. One run, one hit and one error.

Pleasant Hill found the groove in the top of the sixth and had their inning to move out front 3 to 1. Cliff Crenshaw smashed a triple against the right-centerfield fence. Then Mike Compton hit a roller down the first base line and was tagged out while Crenshaw scored on the play. Wayne Wash struck out. Gary Parker singled to short and went to second on a passed ball. Mel Mayfield walked. Clay Ross struck out but was safe on Bill Coons error. Don Boyd singled, and Parker scored. The bases loaded, Larry Bowes walked, forcing in Mayfield. Larry Ford flied to Dave Long for the third out. Three runs, three hits, one error.

In the bottom half of the inning for Whiteman, Dave Meador doubled against the centerfield fence. Bill Coons singled to second and Meador scored. Savalto and Long both struck out. J. Coons flied out to right field. One run, two hits no errors.

Pleasant Hill picked up a couple more runs in the top of the seventh. Crenshaw was safe on Sweeney's error. Compton beat out an infield hit. Wash forced

Mexico Favored In Davis Cup Match

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—Mexico's heavily favored Davis Cup team opens with its ace, Rafael Osuna, today in its first-round American Zone match against Canada.

Thursday's draw put Osuna against Francois Godbout and Antonio Palafox against Harry Fauquier in the opening singles, to the distress of Canadian captain Jim Macken.

Macken had hoped Godbout, his No. 1 player, would draw Palafox, giving Canada a better chance at an opening-day split.

Compton at second. Bill Coons throw to second was bad and Crenshaw scored and Wash went on to third base. Parker walked. Mayfield hit a sacrifice and Wash scored. Ross struck out. Two runs, one hit and two errors.

The boys from Pleasant Hill in the eighth added more runs. Boyd popped out to Savalto. Bowes hit a single down the left field line. Larry Ford hit the second home run of the tournament over the left field fence and scored Bowes ahead of him. Crenshaw safe on Rudy Sanchez error. Compton out. Jim Coons to Dave Meador. Crenshaw stole second. Wash walked. On a delayed steal, Coons threw to Rudy Sanchez at second, and on the return throw home the ball was wild and Crenshaw scored. On a wild pitch Wash scored. Parker popped out to Meador. Four runs, two hits and two errors.

In the bottom of the eighth, things became uneasy for Pleasant Hill as Hall walked. Meador popped out to Ford. Bill Coons walked. Savalto was given a walk to fill the bases. Dan Long walked forcing Hall to score. Gazveardo, Whiteman pitcher, grounded out to Boyd, but Bill Coons scored. Hassett struck out to end the inning. Two runs, no hits, no errors.

To Early To Tell About Willie Mays

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

It may be too early yet to tell whether Willie Mays, admittedly a streak hitter, is on one of his patented power displays.

If he is, the San Francisco Giants may yet give Los Angeles a run for the National League pennant. Who knows? They may even duplicate last year's late season surge when they forced the Dodgers into a play-off and then beat them for the championship.

Willie, in the last five games, has cracked nine hits in 18 times at bat. Four of his hits have been home runs and he has driven in nine runs during that span. The center fielder also has been his brilliant self in the field and on the bases.

Consequently, the Giants won four of those five.

Mays crashed a home run, double and single Thursday and batted in half his team's runs in their 8-6 triumph over the New York Mets.

It was New York's 19th straight road defeat, matching the modern major league record for futility, set by Philadelphia Athletics of 1916.

The victory, third straight over the hapless Mets, boosted the Giants into third place, a half game in front of the Chicago Cubs and 7 1/2 lengths behind the league leading Dodgers.

Pittsburgh tripped up the Dodgers 6-2 and Cincinnati shaded the Cubs 3-2. Second place St. Louis defeated Milwaukee 3-1 and Houston shut out Philadelphia 3-0.

Sandy Koufax, sensational Dodger southpaw, struck out 12 in six innings but the Pirates pasted his offerings for eight hits, including a three-run homer by Roberto Clemente that spelled his fourth defeat. Koufax was seeking his 17th victory.

Superb relief pitching by Tommie Sisk helped Pittsburgh salvage the last of the three-game set.

Lew Burdette, traded last month to St. Louis, not only had the satisfaction of beating his old Milwaukee team but outpitched an old friend in Warren Spahn. It was the first mound meeting of the ex-roommates after an 11-year companionship on the Braves.

Burdette, 36, gave up five hits, struck out two and walked none. Spahn, 42, allowed eight hits, struck out one and walked none. Stan Musial, another old timer, was responsible for Spahn's fifth defeat in 17 decisions. He singled in a run and later scored.

Catcher Johnny Edwards' ninth inning sacrifice fly scored pinch runner Marty Keough with the run that gave Cincinnati the rub-

Little League Plays Some Tight Games

There were three tight games in Little League action Thursday night.

In the A circuit at Centennial Park, Rotary defeated Moose 22-19 in a game that went three extra innings. The added length made it necessary to cancel the second game, between Ice and Lions, and reschedule it for next Monday.

The winning pitcher for Rotary was Ricky Bozarth, with John McFarland taking the loss.

Missouri Monks Build New Town

By DAN PERKES
BETHLEHEM, S.D. (AP)—High on a rim of Elk Creek Canyon in the Black Hills National Forest, lies the little town of Bethlehem. Since 1936, Benedictine fathers and monks of Conception Abbey of Conception, Mo., have been building living quarters, repairing washed out roads and constructing a shrine at Crystal Cave.

Father Gilbert Stack is the founder of Bethlehem, S.D. An old mule barn was converted into living quarters for the monks. The Shrine of the Nativity, a replica of one in the Holy Land, was built inside Crystal Cave. "Christ was born in a stable in a cave and the Church first took hold in the Rome Catacombs during 300 years of persecution," Father Gilbert explains.

Three years before he founded the famous order of Monte Cassino Abbey, he adds. Two priests are permanently in residence at the shrine. They are assisted by laymen who are oblates of Conception Abbey. During the busy summer tourist season, Father Gilbert says, additional monks are supplied and numerous laymen from the U.S. and Canada donate their time. The shrine, built near the entrance, is deep enough to provide an atmosphere of warmth and serenity. In the cave, tourists travel the one-half mile route used by visitors to the old Crystal Cave. Walks are electrically lighted and a guide explains the formations and the various rooms along the way. Father Gilbert estimates that about 10,000 visitors a year come to the shrine. There is no admission charge. "But we do ask everyone who visits us to say a prayer for peace," he says. "We feel everyone's prayers are needed for world peace." Services are held at the shrine twice each morning during the summer and on special religious days throughout the year. Special Easter and Christmas services are attended by residents throughout the Black Hills and surrounding states. The monks must maintain their independence by some means of self-support. Father Gilbert chose to be a printer. Since he has been at Bethlehem, he has printed cards for Christmas and birthdays and offers some of them for sale to visitors. During the yuletide season, he gets thousands of orders for Christmas cards requesting they be postmarked from Bethlehem.

'General' Runs Again
HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP)—It took four hours for a normal 50-minute run, but the whole affair was a ball. That, in brief, was the story of Wednesday's trip from Charleston to Huntington by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad's Civil War engine, the "General," and its museum-coach 665. The run was a West Virginia centennial event. The "General," built in 1855, became famous April 12, 1862, when it was stolen at Big Shanty, Ga., by a Union spy, James J. Andrews, and 19 Yankee raiders.

WOUNDED IN GUN PLAY—Police place handcuffed William Hockaday, 50, Kansas City, in a patrol car after an altercation Wednesday afternoon at the East End Tavern, Fifth and Engineer, in which three shots were fired from Hockaday's .22 caliber automatic pistol, one wounding Hockaday in the left thumb. Police also arrested Louis Edward Bale, 40, 1931 East Fifth. Officers shown are Clyde Nicewarner, Lester Williams and Chief of Police Ralph Hamlin. (back to camera.) Hockaday's wound was not too serious. He was fined $75 in Police Court Thursday and Bale was fined $25. (Democrat-Capitol photo)

Drivers Test Failure Rate 31 Per Cent

County Residents Not Prepared For Written Portion

Pettis County applicants for a Missouri driver's license who fail to make the grade are finding that a thorough study of the Missouri Drivers Guide would probably have prevented the necessity for a second appearance before the drivers license examiners.

According to a summary of the drivers license examinations given in 1962, 31 per cent of those taking the test failed. The summary shows that 58 per cent of those people failed their examination because they did not pass the written portion of the test, and 40 per cent failed the road test. The remaining three per cent of the tests were ruled incomplete, due to defective vehicles.

These results point up the importance of keeping up to date on the ever-changing state laws pertaining to vehicle drivers, particularly for those holding valid licenses issued by other states, but taking the Missouri examination for the first time.

Local drivers license examiners break down into categories the failures as those taking the examination for the first time, out-of-state applicants and those who have allowed their Missouri license to expire and are taking the examination for a new license.

Most of the failures from out-of-state are due to lack of familiarity with Missouri laws, thus do not watch speed limit and other signs that are somewhat different in each state.

Failure of new applicants to meet the driver qualifications is listed as inability to physically drive the car due to lack of experience, and unfamiliarity with the various state laws.

Failures among those whose licenses have expired are due to carelessness and inattention. As they have once passed the examination, the examiners report these applicants often become overconfident in their belief that they know all about the laws and regulations governing local traffic.

Local drivers license examiners list the three questions missed by all categories of applicants in most cases as questions pertaining to:

Schanuth Appeals His Conviction From Police Court Here

Ervin Kenneth Schanuth, 31, 401 North Engineer, has appealed a July 19 conviction in city police court and is free on a $750 bond posted by the Bradshaw Bonding Company.

Schanuth was fined a total of $310 and sentenced to 30 days in the city jail by Judge U. L. Howerton after he was found guilty on five charges stemming from a disturbance inside and outside of the Interlude Bar, 112 West Second, on the night of July 18.

Schanuth was fined $200 and sentenced to 30 days in jail on a charge of assaulting arresting Police Officer Lester Williams. Other fines were on city intoxication and disturbance charges and on a complaint of disturbing the peace and destruction of property signed by Jack Morris, proprietor of the Interlude Bar.

The appeal by Schanuth was filed Thursday afternoon in Circuit Court.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (P)—Postmaster General J. Edward Day has submitted his resignation and President Kennedy has accepted it, it was learned Thursday night.

Day, 49, is the third member of the President's original Cabinet to resign.

First word of the resignation came from William H. Lawrence, American Broadcasting Co. commentator.

Day who was an insurance executive in Los Angeles before being appointed postmaster general at the start of the Kennedy administration, will become partner in charge of the Washington law office of the Chicago firm of Sigley, Austin, Burgess and Smith. He formerly was associated with the firm in Chicago.

Contract Let For Work On Missile Job

H. C. Smith Construction Co., Los Angeles, has been elected to do installation and construction work in Missouri for the missile project under way here.

Under a $1,700,000 contract with the Boeing Co., weapon system integrator for the Air Force program, the Los Angeles construction firm will install communication antennas and the missile suspension system in the underground launching silos plus other work. The work will be at sites near Whiteman Air Force Base.

The company will be working on the blast resistant underground silos in which the solid fueled intercontinental ballistic missiles are to be stored.

The missile suspension system is a shock-mounted ring in each silo upon which the missile rests.

This is the Smith Company's first Minuteman contract.

Thomason Queried

No Move Planned By Fair's Chief

Don Thomason, commissioner of the Missouri Department of Agriculture, told The Democrat-Capitol today his department does not plan to intercede in the dispute which has evolved from Sedalia's fire department being replaced on State Fair duty by a volunteer group.

Thomason said the department is obligated to the volunteer group which has been arranged for and indicated no change would be made this year.

Asked about a donation to the volunteer firefighters group by the State Fair, Thomason told the Democrat-Capitol that he couldn't confirm or deny the donation. He said W. H. Ritzenthaler, fair secretary, would have the details on such a transaction.

J. M. (Jack) Cunningham, former city councilman who headed the Fire and Water committee last year, spoke out against the current committee. Cunningham said he resented not being identified in a statement released Wednesday by Walter Jesse, head of the current council Fire and Water committee.

Jesse's statement said the fire department switch "had come

Record Crop Yields Seen In The Area

High Temperature Readings Hike Need for Rainfall

Farmers in West Central Missouri report that row crops are in excellent condition, and that prospects for record yields are excellent.

The corn crop, for instance, is well ahead of last year. Corn is reported more than 75 per cent tasseled, compared with 65 per cent during the same period last year. Farmers report the ears seem larger and the stalks healthier than last year, indicating the yield should be considerably higher than the yield for the past several years.

Soybeans were reported about 87 per cent of normal growth, with more than half of the crop in bloom. This is about ten per cent higher than during the same period last year.

Pastures are reported about 71 per cent of normal, with the percentage a little lower in the northern part of the area. On the weekend of July 21, there was considerable amount of rainfall, ranging from one to two inches, which improved the condition of pastures, as well as row crops, considerably.

Vegetable crops and gardens are reported in excellent condition, with tomatoes, beans, etc., producing high yields.

Principal farm activities in this area are haying and plowing for fall grain seeding. These activities are rapidly nearing completion, and preparations for other harvesting are under way.

Rain is needed in the general area. Temperatures at this time of the year are normally high, and for several days were higher than normal, causing the topsoil to dry out rapidly. The absence

U. S., Britain and Soviet Union Agree To End Nuclear Testing

Testing Ended in Space, Water and Atmosphere

MOSCOW (AP)—The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union agreed in a treaty initialed Thursday to end nuclear testing in the atmosphere, outer space and under water. They immediately hailed their unprecedented accord as a major breakthrough toward easing cold war tensions.

In the agreement, climaxing arduous negotiations almost as old as the atomic age itself, the three powers also affirmed their determination to continue striving for a complete ban on nuclear testing and implied they will give no nuclear aid to nations that do not go along.

The Big Three foreign ministers — America's Dean Rusk, Britain's Lord Home and Russia's Andrei Gromyko — will sign the treaty in Moscow in the near future, a communique said.

Britain's chief negotiator said he expects the signing to take place within two or three weeks.

Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman, who led the U.S. team through the 10 Moscow sessions leading to agreement, initialed the draft in a simple ceremony with Gromyko and Britain's chief negotiator, Science Minister Lord Hailsham.

It was evident from the negotiators' comments, the treaty itself and the communique that the partial test ban, if effected, is envisioned as merely the opening round of a series of East-West negotiations on a number of outstanding issues.

A three-power summit meeting is considered by some Western quarters as a strong possibility to get the ball rolling again on such issues as an East-West nonaggression pact, a complete test ban and disarmament.

With notable exceptions, leaders of East and West hailed the Moscow announcement as a step on the road to peace.

But in Paris, President Charles de Gaulle's government reaffirmed that it would not be bound by the agreement in its efforts to make France an independent nuclear power.

Communist China, striving to enter the nuclear club, had denounced the treaty in advance.

In Washington, President Kennedy moved quickly to marshal American opinion behind the treaty to give impetus to the administration's drive to win the two-thirds support in the Senate necessary for ratification.

The White House announced the President will speak to the nation Friday night on the agreement. The State Department said Secretary of State Rusk is expected to take a congressional delegation with him to Moscow for the signing.

Firms Surveyed To Determine Capabilities

Oscar E. Smith, representative of the Industrial Engineering Section of Missouri's Division of Commerce and Industrial Development is in Sedalia surveying firms in connection with the state's drive to gain new industry.

Smith said the survey is aimed at determining precisely what different firms do, what they are capable of doing and their limitations. Such information, he said, is being compiled from over the state and will be transferred to IBM cards for ready reference.

He said firms considering locating in the state have questions about proximity of location of manufacturers that do certain types of work. Being able to immediately advise a company considering a plant location in the state names of firms that could handle certain sub-contract work for them or repair machinery, will, he said, enhance the possibility of locating somewhere in the state.

Five firms are being surveyed but their names were not released.

Sedalia Is Credited With Saving a Life

Artificial respiration administered by PFC Phillip Kabler, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Kabler, 310 North Park, was credited with saving the life of a nine year old boy who was swimming in a Belton, Tex., pool last Sunday.

The soldier, stationed at Ft. Hood, Tex., administered the mouth-to-mouth resuscitation procedures he had learned from his military training. It was reported that the young boy had turned blue from lack of oxygen before being pulled from the pool.

Phone Talk Ordinance Considered

No Local, Federal Law On Abusive Calls On Record

Although there is no City Ordinance prohibiting the use of loud, profane or abusive language over the telephone, an individual might still be prosecuted under State laws.

City Attorney John C. McCloskey early this week informed members of the Sedalia Police Department that there is no specific ordinance against such practices, and asked the officers to make no further arrests for such alleged offenses.

This left the impression among many people that the use of loud, abusive and profane language over the telephone is condoned. This is far from the truth.

A check with Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz revealed that a person charged with this practice could be prosecuted under the general peace disturbance laws of the State.

Fritz cited as example a case where the Springfield Court of Appeals failed to uphold a lower court's decision of guilt, not because the case was improperly prosecuted, nor because the defendant was improperly charged, but because the lower court had failed to establish the identity of the individual charged with making the call.

Fritz said this leads him to believe the conviction would have been upheld if the identity had positively been established, and that a charge of using profane or abusive language over the telephone could be properly prosecuted under the general peace disturbance laws.

McCloskey said he is taking steps to approach City Council with the idea of amending City Ordinance 4-701, dealing with offenses against the public peace, Section 2 (b) of this Ordinance deals with the playing of any radio, phonograph or other instrument in such a manner that would disturb the public peace. McCloskey said he would seek to have a phrase dealing with offensive telephone calls inserted in this section.

Calvin Hamilton of the District Attorney's office in Kansas City said there are no federal laws concerning the contents of a telephone conversation, neither does the Federal Communications Commission have regulations concerning the contents of telephone conversations.

Ford Motor Reports Record Earnings

NEW YORK (AP)—Ford Motor Co., first of the big three auto makers to report earnings for the three months ended June 30, made more money than in any other quarter of its 60-year history.

The company announced Wednesday that it earned $155.9 million, equal to $1.41 a share. This compared with $140.6 million, or $1.28 a share, in the 1962 second quarter, the previous high.

Sales of $2,339,900,000 were 15 per cent higher than the second quarter of 1962, also a record.

The company said U.S.-built Ford cars, trucks and tractors totaled 652,385 in the second quarter, a gain of 13 per cent over a year earlier. World production, including domestic output, was 1,004,071 cars, trucks and tractors, compared with 867,492 in the 1962 second quarter.

30-Day Postponement

Congressional Pressure Ends Rail Strike Threat

WASHINGTON (AP)—Yielding to congressional pressure, the railroad industry agreed Thursday to a month's delay in its timetable for the posting of new work rules which threatened to touch off a nationwide strike after midnight Monday.

House and Senate leaders said the 30-day postponement, to 12:01 a.m. on Aug. 29, would give Congress sufficient time to act on President Kennedy's plan to avert a walkout by turning the dispute over to the Interstate Commerce Commission for two years.

It was the seventh time since 1960 that a deadline for imposition of the manpower-reducing work rules had been set and then postponed. Earlier delays came at the request of the Kennedy administration, or as a result of court action.

Heads of the House and Senate Commerce committees had urged the latest postponement, saying Congress did not have time to act on the Kennedy proposal before next Monday midnight, the old deadline.

Five unions representing on-train employees had served notice they would strike the minute the changes became effective.

Daniel P. Loomis, president of the Association of American Railroads, announced the postponement as the House Commerce Committee opened its second day of hearings on the administration plan.

"In response to the request of the chairmen of the House and Senate committees and in order to cooperate with the Congress of the United States the American railroads have agreed to a 30-day extension to 12:01 a.m., Aug. 29, 1963," he said.

On the other side of the Capitol, Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., said he was very pleased, and promised the Senate Commerce Committee will continue work at an accelerated pace to get the administration proposal to the floor. Pastore is acting chairman of the committee.

After Many Appeals

Door Closes On Life For Tucker

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—The door was closing Thursday night on the misspent life of Sammy Aire Tucker. He killed a Cape Girardeau policeman in a gunfight and wound up in the Missouri gas chamber at the age of 28.

Gov. John M. Dalton, just back from the National Governors' Conference, said he saw no reason to intercede with the scheduled execution at midnight.

"We read the record very carefully," he said. "He had a fair trial and was well represented. His past record didn't indicate much possibility of rehabilitation."

Dalton said he found no mitigating circumstances in the case.

In Washington, Supreme Court Justice Hugo A. Black denied without comment a last-minute request for a stay of execution. It was the third time a stay was refused by the high court, which also upheld his conviction on appeal.

Tucker, from Fresno, Calif., was convicted of killing Donald H. Crittendon March 10, 1961. He was shot in the stomach when he ordered Tucker to get out of his car after a chase.

Tucker's partner in crime, Douglas Wayne Thompson, 28, also was sentenced to death for killing an auxiliary policeman, Herbert Goss, in the gun battle. Thompson's case is pending on appeal before the U. S. Supreme Court.

Report on Sedalia Sewers Is Approved

Missouri's Water Pollution Board has accepted the engineering report of Burns & McDonnell Engineering Co. on Sedalia's sewer system survey and recommendations for needed improvements. Mayor L. L. Studer said the preliminary report was approved.

Two Fined, One Jailed For Assault

Two Negroes were fined and one given a 10-day jail sentence in Police Court Thursday by Judge U. L. Howerton for their roles in a disturbance Saturday in which Police Officer William Shobe was assaulted.

Lilly Mae Jones, 207 East St. Louis, entered a plea of guilty and was fined $15 for failure to obey a lawful order by a police officer, $15 for disturbing the peace, and $15 for resisting arrest and assaulting a police officer for a total fine of $45. She was also given a 15-day jail sentence on the latter assault charge, but the sentence was suspended on good behavior.

Henry V. Harker, also of 207 East St. Louis, also entered a plea of guilty. He was fined $25 for resisting arrest, $15 for failure to obey a lawful order by a police officer, $15 for destruction of property and $15 plus a 10-day jail sentence for assaulting a police officer. Harker's fines totaled $70 plus the jail stay.

The incident occurred Saturday at Pettis and Osage, testimony indicated.

Shobe, a Negro police officer, testified he was struck in the back and his shirt torn as police took the Negro couple into custody. It was not brought out in court testimony, but police also had considerable difficulty restraining the Negro couple after they had been brought to police headquarters.

The Water Pollution Board requested that the City proceed to arrange for financing of the proposed works and that engineers proceed to prepare detailed plans and specifications for the proposed improvements.

Studer said arrangements for a meeting with the consulting engineers, members of the City Council, and members of the citizens sewer bond issue committee will be completed at an early date.

Earlier the mayor had said he hoped to schedule the bond issue election in August but a firm date was, at that time, hinged to an early approval of the survey report by Water Pollution Board.

A $3-million dollar bond issue has been indicated by the mayor. This amount includes federal funds totaling 30 per cent which would be available to the city after a bond issue is passed and certain other federal requirements are met.

Requirements are: a location for construction of facilities, approved funds, and a willingness on the part of the city to proceed with work immediately.

The entire engineering report has not been released but Mayor Studer has stated that additional information would be made available soon after the Water Pollution Board gave its stamp of approval and the local committee is briefed on the report.

The Curse of Being Pretty

By DICK KLEINER

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Rita Gam is going to spend her summer in Minneapolis to prove to the world that she's more than just a sex symbol.

In case you're not aware that Minneapolis is a proving ground for this kind of thing, be advised that that city is the home of the new Minnesota Theatre Company, a refreshing experiment which deserves some attention.

Sir Tyrone Guthrie, renowned Broadway and London director, is taking the classical stage to the Midwest. From May 7 through Sept. 22, in a beautiful new theater, his company will present a repertoire of four plays—Shakespeare's "Hamlet," Moliere's "The Miser," Chekhov's "The Three Sisters" and Miller's "Death of a Salesman." The permanent company is headed by Hume Cronyn, Jessica Tandy, George Grizzard and Miss Gam.

"I'm hoping," says the glamorous actress, "that this is my chance to prove I'm an actress, not just a sex symbol. I think my career has been held up from five to 10 years because of my looks. My looks are not the kind producers think actresses have—it's not the face of the girl-next-door. How I envy the girl-next-door!"

Miss Gam says she has tried desperately to get away from what she calls "the Indian-girl part" in movies and on television. She quit movies, went to the Actors' Studio, participated in the

RITA GAM

Studio's South American tour and worked like a beaver.

"The result? They offered me more Indian-girl parts in Hollywood, and television wanted me to play Hollywood glamor gals."

So she's off to Minneapolis, hoping she'll come back with the reputation as an actress. Or a girl-next-door.

Another handsome human who has come to the realization that there's something more to acting than looks, is Richard Beymer. The young movie star is currently on a studying binge in New York. "I decided," Dick says, "after working with people like Joanne Woodward in 'The Stripper,' that I really didn't know what I was doing. I needed training."

Every day he has acting lessons — at the Actors' Studio and privately with Lee Strasberg — and singing lessons and exercise classes. He also finds time to write (he's working on a screenplay), to paint and to sketch. But none for what some consider his forte, dancing.

Beymer, born in Avoca, Ia., moved to Los Angeles with his parents when he was 10. The boy was fascinated watching a neighborhood movie choreographer dance and he joined in. The choreographer thought he had talent and suggested to Dick's parents that he take lessons. And a dancer was born.

Dick always liked singing but had never been trained. Because of his success in films, Liberty Records asked him to make a record but he said he just wasn't equipped. They said he should study and let them know when he was ready.

"I'm ready now," he says. "I'm going to record a single and then an album. I'm still not great and I'm going to study some more. Eventually, I want to do a Broadway musical."

Acting is something he now feels he can handle. But he's trying to break away from Hollywood typecasting.

"I'm tired," he says, "of playing the sensitive boy dominated by his mother. That's not me. What I want to do is make a Western so I can prove I'm not dominated by my mother." He'll probably get one where he's dominated by his horse.

About the only thing worse than having a boy friend or a girl friend who is an identical twin would be to have one who is a mind reader—in either case you could never be quite sure of yourself.

Teachers in Smithton High School some 20 odd years ago had something to be thankful for, only two pairs of the five sets of twins in the graduating class of 1939 were identical twins.

They were Alta and Alpha Schlobohm and Wray and Clay Schroeder.

Alta is married to Jim Reed, 1201 South Ohio, and has a daughter and two sons. She is the blond gem that sparkles brightest in the Gem Dandee Jewelers.

Alpha is now Mrs. Milford Danley of Orange, Calif., and has three girls and a boy.

This week is a happy one for these twins for Alpha arrived for a visit and it is wonderful to be together again.

When they were little Alta thought it was mighty stupid of people not to be able to tell them apart—she didn't think they looked anything alike.

But they did look alike and they have done the same things the same way all of their lives, even to having fillings in the same teeth or having to have the same teeth pulled and they both had to have surgery—their appendix out.

It was after Alta's sister and their parents all moved to the State of California that Alta had a breaking out, so bad that she had to go to the hospital—but, of course, nothing serious. Knowing her family takes the Sedalia paper and that it would be about her in the hospital notes, Alta wrote her mother immediately to let them know that there was really nothing very wrong with her.

"Well, I'm sure glad to hear what it is," said Alpha. "I have just scratched and scratched all week."

Another time before Alpha moved to California, and was living in Richmond, Mo., just before one of her children was born, Alta told her mother the baby was coming that day.

"How do you know?" her mother asked, to which Alta replied: "Because I am having labor pains."

"That's the silliest thing I ever heard of," her mother told her. But a short time later they learned that Alpha's baby came just about that time.

From the very beginning Alta and Alpha always got along, they never argued or fussed about anything, but as soon as they were old enough to know, they knew their own clothes, although their mother dressed them exactly alike.

Alta would start to put on a dress and then she would say: "Oh, that's Alpha's."

"What difference does it make?" her mother would ask. "They are just alike." And they were, but not to Alta and Alpha. They both knew their own and weren't about to wear something that belonged to the other.

"How do you know it is yours?" the mother would question, and they didn't know. All they knew was that they knew which was which, and they always agreed on it.

They were a bewildered lot to all their teachers through grade school because they were always in the same room, but they were a real aggravation to one teacher who declared they changed places.

When they started he put one in one part of the room and the other in the opposite side, but he couldn't remember who was where. When he would ask one a question by name and she would answer, he would just be furious.

"When I call on Alpha, why do you always answer?" he would say, and Alpha would answer truthfully. "But I am Alpha." The same thing happened with the other twin, but he never believed them, and he was always upset.

One thing that they didn't agree on, and that was a good thing, was boys. It would have been a bad state of affairs if they had both wanted the same boy—their mutual understanding and getting along would have gone up in smoke. God surely must take that into consideration when he creates identical twins.

Alta and Alpha weren't interested in the same fellows, but their mother thought they would have a lot of fun once in awhile if they would change dates and see what happened. So it was the last day of school that she talked them into trying to fool their dates. Their boy friends were coming by for them, separately, and they agreed to change places going to the school, but Alta liked her boy friend quite a lot and she wasn't going to consent to going to Arrow Rock Park with Alpha's date, where they were going to have a picnic.

When the first boy drove up the wrong twin got in with him, and the other one waited for the other boy. The boys never knew the difference—at least if they did, they never let on. At the school the girls did considerable maneuvering around until they finally got with their own dates.

From the time they were five years old the girls sang together, starting in Sunday School, and were well known and popular after they were older for their lovely voices on KDRO.

Alta recalls that after Alpha left and then came back for a visit she was sitting in the congregation with Jim and Alta was singing in the choir. Alta really got a bang out of watching the people who would look at her and then look at Alpha, then look back at her. They didn't know she had a twin and couldn't figure it out.

They were never separated until they were married and Alpha left. One time Alta was keeping one of Alpha's little girls, and the little youngster asked her something and called her Mama. Alta answered her and then said, "But I'm not your mama."

The child looked at her and replied, "You look just like my Mama, so I'm going to call you Mama."

Their speaking voices are so much alike that Alta dials her in the State of California and talks to her, and the mother thinks it is Alpha who lives in the same town.

When the Schroeder twins were born their mother put wrist bands on them so she could tell them apart, and when a mother can't tell which is which of her children it is really a bad situation. No wonder when they got a little older that, going from the barn to the house one day, one of her toddlers looked up and said: "Which one is I, Wray or Clay?"

Dr. Holtzen, who for many years was the physician at Smithton, asked the mother one day when she called him and was trying to tell him about one of her twins being sick.

"Which one is it?" "It doesn't make any difference about their names—tell me which side of the bed he sleeps on."

In school the teachers asked her to put different colored shirts on them and she did, but even that and the fact that they were placed at different sides of the room, didn't help—not with Wray and Clay. It didn't, because they sometimes changed. Now, Alta and Alpha stayed where they were put, but that, perhaps, was because they were girls and the type girls they were, too. If people were confused about them, they really didn't try to add to the confusion.

When the boys entered high school the teachers gave up even trying, and so they merely called them both Schroeder.

That was really a terrific idea the boys thought. When the teacher asked a question, and said: "Schroeder," then looked at the answer and if he didn't know the answer and looked at his brother, pretending that he thought they meant Clay, and Clay did the same thing. There must have been quite a silence if neither of them knew the answer.

Until they were 13 years old their grandmother lived with them and she never learned to tell them apart.

They started out on the farm and Clay always came in early when they were going some place. Wray liked to stay a little later, and do whatever he was doing. Wray's girl friend lived down the road a little ways, so Clay would get all cleaned up, go after her and bring her back to their house for Wray, and her family never did know that it wasn't Wray who was picking her up—but she knew, and she married the right twin—Wray saw to that.

They sometimes switched girls, too. One time at a picnic the group decided to go to the show and a girl Wray had gone with thought she would go on to the show with him—but he was left in an awful spot because he had a date with another girl. This girl kept following him around and he told his uncle to get the car and meet him at a certain place while he wandered around in the crowd switching back and forth until she got to talking to Clay and thought she was talking to him. Then she found out—but it was too late.

Wray had made his get-away, and kept his date with the other girl.

Both of them farmed for a few years, then both were machinists, then Wray went into selling agriculture machinery and in a short time Clay began selling industrial machinery, both working for the same company, then both went into the carpenter business. One worked for one contractor and the other for another. A plumber was really befuddled when he would

Wayne 'Never Touched Gun'

NEW YORK — (NEA) — If and when Patrick Wayne ever writes his version of "Life With Father," it will shed a new light on the personality of John Wayne.

Young Pat's new movie, "McClintock," may well establish him as a chip off the old blockbuster. He is big, handsome and has his own brand of quiet charm. You saw him on television as the kid first baseman in Fred Astaire's Premiere play, "Flashing Spikes," with James Stewart.

Even though he is John Wayne's son, he didn't grow up with a burning desire to act. The only burning desire he had was to get a college education. This he did, majoring in biology at Loyola. But, along about his junior year, he decided "I'd enjoy acting more than anything else."

Pat says his father never tried to guide any of his children. There are six young Waynes, two older than Pat and three younger.

"My father was a strange disciplinarian," Pat says. "I only remember his spanking me once. I don't remember what I did—I only remember knowing that I never wanted to be spanked again."

"But what he would do is wait until you were in a room with lots of people around and then scold you. Once, I guess I was about 9, I found his .45 and fooled around with it. You know, twirling it and playing with it. Nothing happened, luckily. I put it away when I was finished. But he found out what I had done."

"More than a year later, we were all in Ireland where he was shooting 'The Quiet Man.' One night, at a dinner party with the whole cast, he was sitting across the table from me. Suddenly, he leaned over, shook his finger at me and said, 'Don't you ever touch my gun again.'"

"I was humiliated. Tears were streaming down my face. It was terrible. But I never touched the gun again."

The ordinary public sometimes go to one house and see one of them and then to another house and see the other. Finally one day he asked: "How many contractors are you working for?"

Later Clay went into the real estate business and Wray went into the insurance business. Now Clay has insurance, too. And every day people get them mixed up, they ask Wray about houses and they give Clay insurance premiums that belong to Wray.

Once, when he was selling machinery, Wray sold one man $5,000 worth of farm machinery and everything was fine until the man went into the store and Clay was there but Wray wasn't. Clay, of course, didn't pay any attention to the man because he didn't know him, and the man was really mad. After all this fellow had just sold him $5,000 worth of machinery and was certainly friendly enough then — now he didn't even speak to him. Wray had a little difficulty convincing him that there was another Schroeder who looked just like him and who didn't pay any attention to him because he just plain had never seen the man before.

Another time one of them went into a barber shop for a hair cut and in about a half hour in came the other for a hair cut.

"Boy," said the bewildered barber, "I just got through cutting your hair."

BROWN: Jazz singers are not wild.

gets the wrong idea about jazz musicians. Listen to the experience of Georgia Brown.

"I went to a party with Wally Cox," she says. "He's a love. The hostess found out that I sing jazz. I guess she felt that all jazz musicians are on dope or something. She offered to send out and get some."

"People automatically think that a jazz singer must be a swinger. They assume that my private life is wild. But a jazz singer can be a very normal person. I hate vile language, for example; when I hear it, I freeze inside."

Georgia Brown is the black-haired British belter now starring on Broadway in "Oliver!" While there is a difference of opinion about the show, there is none about Miss Brown. She's a solid performer and her singing of "As Long As He Needs Me" is one of the memorable moments of this lackluster Broadway season.

She breathes fire into the song, which reflects her feelings about music in general.

"Lyrics are the most important thing to a song," she says. "I've changed them and sometimes taken out lines when I've done certain songs, if I felt that they got in the way of a particular thought."

"Words have an almost sensual appeal," she says. "The sounds made by lips and tongue and teeth are really quite sensual. Noel Coward knows this and knows how to use sounds. Take the opening line of 'Mad About the Boy'—you could almost know what he was talking about even if you didn't understand the language."

Another time Wray went into a local store and bought a new suit and found that Clay had gone in the same store and bought a suit just exactly like it. They find they usually buy things alike or similar.

Their voices sound alike and their wives can't tell them apart on the telephone. One day Clay called Wray's home, and thinking it was her husband she began giving him the grocery list. Having four children soda pop is always about at the top of the list.

"Bring some drinks," she told him, to which he replied: "What do you want, Four Roses?" and then she knew it was Clay.

One time the two families were visiting their folks and Wray decided they had better leave a little early. His wife was in the bedroom dressing the youngsters when someone asked Clay if he was going.

"No," he said, "I guess I might as well stay for awhile," and so she undressed the kids and put their old clothes back on them. About that time in walked Wray and wanted to know if she was ready, and was she ever put out—

The Hard-riding War Buggy Rounds Two-decade Corner

NEW YORK—If you're checking off the passing parade on your calendar, it is now exactly 20 years since international language was increased by America's best-known four-letter word—jeep.

In these brief two decades, hardly anything remains of the once-familiar GI esperanto of World War II: sad sack, eager beaver.

To the casual, balding observer, that old easy shorthand is a metaphor ever gone. And in its place is a computerized lingo that overfills the head, full of go, twx, countdown and fallout.

Not so, however, with the jeep. What began as the cavalry's scheme to replace the horse in 1935 and ended as a quarter-ton, 4-wheel-drive vehicle replacing every U.S. auto in 1943 has come to stay.

Never has a piece of machinery meant so much to so many people. In World War II, like the horse it replaced, the jeep crossed field and mountain, carried men, weapons and ammunition, served as a courier and lived like a member of the family.

In addition, it doubled as a field ambulance, snow plow, fire engine, airplane hauler. Chaplains used its hood for an altar. Nurses combed their hair by its mirror. Forward patrols laid smoke screens with it. And in between times it dug furrows and planted crops, pulled anti-tank guns, took generals, presidents and kings on inspection tours and tired GIs on curious midnight rides.

But just where the name "jeep" came from is hard to say. Reference libraries cite composers, authors and teachers named Jeep, none of them remotely connected with this 4-ton 4x4. Even the U.S. Army cannot recall how the name was born. But as the vehicle developed, so, apparently, did the name—from Quad to Bug, to Blitz Buggy to Midget, Puddle Jumper and Peep.

But somehow in 1943 the name became jeep and stopped, wedded immediately to the American language. Within months, U.S. vocalists had "Little Bo Peep Has Lost Her Jeep;" instrumentalists had the "Jeep Jockey Jump," and moviegoers had "Four Jills in a Jeep."

And the U.S. Armed Forces had a vehicle which would, as its specifications demanded, maintain a level road maximum speed of 55 m.p.h., a minimum of 3, the ability to ford 18 inches of water, and the durability and ease of repair required by war.

Well, that was 20 years ago. In the meantime, the 4x4 has undergone many changes, adapting it to civilian use and atomic-age needs.

But the first one—that rugged 1943 model?

"Still in use all over the world," says a dealer in Columbus, Ohio, who stocks among other things, old jeep parts.

"They've got to wear out sometime," Schenk says. "Everything wears out sometime. But I figure the old jeep's got another 10 years left. At least another 10."

"When I call on Alpha, why do you always answer?" he would say, and Alpha would answer truthfully. "But I am Alpha." The same thing happened with the other twin, but he never believed them, and he was always upset.

One thing that they didn't agree on, and that was a good thing, was boys.
